1. Do you notice what happens when you get angry? Has there been a time when you became angry and just reacted without consideration of your actions?

2. Did you notice what happened when the husband calmed down? Explain.

3. When the husband let his pride get in the way and he decided not to admit anything to his wife, do you think that was a good decision?

4. What do you think would have happened to the marriage if the wife had not spoken up when she did? Do you think the wife's actions was a clever way of resolving the argument she and her husband were having?

5. Do you think honest communication is important in a relationship?
